

Replaying Energy Regulation in Russia

Summary and Recommendation

Buy-recommendations Gazprom (OGZPY) and Lukoil (LUKOY) have long-run appreciation potential from a gradual relaxation of natural gas price controls in the case of Gazprom and the oil export tax in the case of Lukoil. Many of the same issues of energy economics and politics being debated in Russia today parallel the arguments we recall vividly that came to a boil in the U.S. during the 1970s. Having visited the two leading Russian companies in their Moscow headquarters on September 21, we will have more to say on each. McDep Ratios below a half for the two companies point to the opportunity subject to the usual risks (see Tables 1 and 2, pages 2 and 3). Market multiples, Enterprise Value to Ebitda, convey a similar message (see Table 3, page 4). Lastly, the industry backdrop looks positive with an upward oil price trend. Latest settlement prices for the average of futures for the next six years at $79 a barrel are above the 40-week average of $72 (see chart below, Six-Year and One-Year Natural Gas and Oil Futures and chart on page 6, Six-Year Commodity Price Meter). The current quote of $6.65 for six-year natural gas practically tracks the 40-week average of $6.73, perhaps poised for an imminent break to the upside.

Research Methodology/Ratings Description: McDep LLC is an independent research originator focused on oil and gas stocks exclusively. The firm applies the forty years of experience of its analyst to estimate a present value of the oil and gas resources and other businesses of covered companies. That value is compared with a company's stock market capitalization and debt. Stocks with low market cap and debt relative to present value tend to outperform stocks with high market cap and debt relative to present value. Buy recommendations are expected to deliver a total return better than 7% per year above inflation. Hold recommendations are expected to deliver a total return less than inflation.
